Physical Accessibility of the Elderly to Healthcare Services in Urban Space

Abstract Details: In an aging population, the demands on our urban environments are changing. To enable for people to live independently longer, our surrounding must adopt to the needs of less abled bodies. This challenge is especially acute for healthcare services, which are daily visited by people with declined physical ability. In this presentation I will unfold the concept of age-friendly cities and its relevance in Estonian context.

Keywords: age-friendly cities, urbanism, aging populations, public space
