

“The use of online databases and digitized source materials in historical research”

Siim Sõkkal

10th Winter School of the GSCSA student seminar abstract

This presentation will talk about the online availability of publications needed for historical research. Ordering works by ancient and modern authors from online bookstores like Amazon Books has become common, but there are also other sources available for those who seek to find historical research materials online. Digital libraries, online databases, social networking websites for academics, and sites by private individuals provide free access to many of the publications sold in bookstores. We will look at the benefits and dangers of using such free to access online materials.